A hand-drawn architectural sketch of a two-story building with a gabled roof. The drawing is done in dark ink on a light-colored, textured paper. The building has two main sections, each with a gabled roof. The left section has a large square window on the ground floor and a smaller square window above it. The right section has a large square window on the ground floor and a smaller square window above it. There are also some smaller, less distinct shapes that might represent doors or smaller windows. The drawing is simple and sketchy, with some lines extending outwards from the main structure. Below the drawing, the text "Achtergevels." is written in a simple, hand-drawn font.
